Safner is cool. UCONN still sucks.

slides were really long and really hard to pay attention.

I enjoyed the course but i can not stand that you drive a RED Prius. The fact you drive a Prius is fine but a red Prius. Also use different examples other than burritos and lattes got annoying after a while. I feel like we were talking about burritos and lattes for a month straight. Get a real electric car like a Tesla.

Dr Safner was an excellent professor. Made the class very enjoyable

Great professor, I had the opportunity to sit with the professor before he was hired and I could tell from the conversations we had while eating, and also watching his presentation to the professors, that he was going to be a good fit to the department and a great professor! Always answered questions best to his ability, even when I would bug him in his office. The slides were a bit long so I could not use them all the time for my studies. Other than that overall an awesome addition to the department.

N/A

Very difficult course. I would suggest more assignments to help students receive more points.

I think the problem sets need to be distributed more effectively. There was too much all at once and it was more of an all the sudden type of thing because the syllabus did not have specific dates. Also the midterm was way too long. I did not have enough time to finish it and ended up leaving things blank. I know this was true for many of my colleagues as well.

Overall, I thought the course was good. Dr. Safner was very passionate and energetic in his teaching. I enjoyed how he kept his power point slides funny in an aim to keep students attentive. He applied a lot of his concepts to the real world, which was nice. The only thing negatively I have to say is that the midterm was pretty tough and extensive, however Dr. Safner worked to rectify that.

Large amounts of assignments due all at once, especially the last week of classes, which as a student working full time with other major classes such as capstone classes, made things almost impossible.

Dr. Safner is a phenomenal professor who is very passionate about his work. I struggled at times in this class because of the content, but his teaching made it so much easier. He gave plenty of opportunities to improve and excel at the coursework. The only thing I did not like was the layout of the syllabus. There are no laid out dates for when exams and papers are due. Dr. Safner gives more than enough notice, but I just prefer to have my schedule planned out from day one.

Absolutely loved him! I recommend dividing the lectures into smaller segments instead of a 90 slide lecture. Keep all the content of course but it will be easier to navigate.

The problem sets were really helpful. The essay was cool too, would have been cool to have more similar ones.

This is the first class i have had with professor Safner and enjoyed his teaching style and overall classroom demeanor.

I think the way you set up the class was very thought out and done well. I liked how you would explain a topic, do an example to show how it is done, and then finally you gave us another example to do on our own. I thought it was very effective to fully learn the topic.

Dr. Safner gave me extensions when I needed them and helped me when I was behind. The quality of teaching was excellent.

It would have helped if our homework's were returned to us before the exams. They would have helped to study off of. Also, some of the homework questions were difficult and not like the examples we did in class. But, I really appreciate the exam corrections. They really helped my grade and also helped me revisit what I did wrong the first time and understand the material better.

This was one of my favorite classes! I thought Dr. Safner did a wonderful job teaching, and it was obvious he cared a lot about the subject. I really enjoyed learning the micro concepts we did in class, and I liked how the tests required us to use those concepts to explain various scenarios. My only problem was that he would occasionally take a while to respond to my emails, but Kim told me he was swamped with emails, so I guess I can't really blame him.

This class was a lot of work but I learned a lot. The professor was very willing to help with anything you needed help with and was interested in your success in the class. Many practice problems and assignments were given to make sure you understood the material. Overall I liked this class.

Safner is understanding and extremely helpful

Professor Safner can teach anyone the ins and outs of economics. I went to him countless times for help, and walked away feeling much MUCH better about the material.

I think the chapters covered should have been covered in reverse order. Overall, excellent class!

Dr. Safner is awesome, and I would highly recommend taking one of his courses. He is a genuinely good professor that shows a true passion for economics and it is infectious, and I am not even an Econ major. He is also incredibly flexible and helpful when ever i needed help or assistance. All around awesome professor, and a good guy.

Dr. Stafner is an amazing instructor, and he cares about the performance of his students.

The format of the slides were very beneficial. I liked that we were provided with answer keys to homework assignments and in class assignments immediately after they were assigned/collected. Test corrections were extremely helpful and the information was taught in a way that made the content more interesting and easier to understand.

It would be helpful to have the homework assignments listed on the syllabus and access to them before the weekend for the future. It would be beneficial to have office hours or TA hours in the evenings for some days.

Thanks for a great semester. I enjoyed learning the material.

Professor Safner was one of the best teachers I have ever had here at Hood College. Straight forward teaching and clear objectives.

Great course.

Prof. Safner taught a difficult course well and I learned a lot. I would take another course with him.

Dr. Safner is very passionate about what he teaches and is very knowledgeable on the topic.

Out of all of the economics classes that I have taken at Hood, I would have to say this one was my least favorite. I just felt like Dr. Safner was trying to stuff too much information into one semester and that made the course go a little fast. And the homework that he gave us were too hard. I would be spending hours just trying to do one problem and there were usually 6 problems on one homework. The homework is supposed to help us but I felt that it just made me more confused.

Cool AF

Dr. Safner is one of those professors that is incredibly intelligent about the subject matter, but just doesn't have that extra "oomph" that stimulates interest. He cannot reach the students. He does a good job of breaking things down and was very flexible with the snow days. I love the op-ed piece, and the fact that he does test corrections. He really tries and I appreciate him.

Awesome professor

Dr. Safner is a truly excellent instructor who is able to provide balanced, engaging lectures and stimulate economic thought in ways that feel useful to day to day life. This has been one of my favorite courses at Hood college and I felt consistently challenged throughout the semester.

The only thing that I would change would be having more in-class activities and discussions instead of all lecturing. But besides that it was a great class.

Made Econ a lot easier than it could have been. He took the time if students needed help and made sure everyone was on the same page before exams. Highly pleased with Dr. Safner and his hard work and dedication towards his students.

I truly enjoyed this course and have learned a lot of information that will be useful throughout my career at Hood as well as in the future. I like Dr. Safner's teaching style as well as how the class is formatted. It allows students to engage in class as well as learn outside of class due to the homework. He is very fair to his students when it comes to exams, homework, and papers.

This is a great class and a wonderful professor!

Classes like this are difficult to map out because you don't know what the students know going into it, but it seemed like we were taking principles a second time with a couple extra lessons thrown in. I wish we had spent less time on the basics in the beginning, since it's likely our third economics class learning them, and it doesn't seem as necessary. It would have been really nice to talk more about perfect competition, monopolies, and imperfect competition. Some of the sections seemed to drag on and I think it would keep the class more engaged if the review was faster so we could get to new topics. That said, I think the way you covered material was very thorough and easy to follow along with. But going back over the slides is a pain because each slide is actually five slides with one more line of text. I really enjoyed this class regardless, and I want to thank you for putting so much time and energy into it even if the class wasn't very responsive to it.

I understand there is a lot of content to cover in this course but I would recommend trying to go over concepts, at least very important ones, at a slower rate.

The teaching style of the instructor was not engaging at all to the students, which made it a little difficult to clearly understand the concepts and material of the class.

very good teacher, really understand that we have other classes and that life happens. Always willing to help. Honestly sometimes econ can be boring, but he brought a lot of passion to class. Keep up the good work!
